

I am totally against cell phones on airplanes. I do not appreciate being part of several peoples conversations--businesses and personal life. Traveling can be stressful anyway and all these various conversations in all tones would increase this and could casue conflict.It could not be helped in such a small contained space